

SMS KICKS OFF 2016 CRUISE SEASON WITH MINERVA CALL

Stevedoring and ancillary services company Southern Maritime Services (SMS) has handled the first of 36 cruise ship call expected at Portsmouth International Port (PIP) this year following the arrival of Swan Hellenic's Minerva.

More than 190 passengers joined the luxury small cruise ship as she sailed on a 13-day trip to the Channel Islands and the North and West coasts of France.

Besides manning the passenger reception desk, SMS also provided stevedoring baggage services and loaded several tonnes of food and other ship's stores as Minerva made the first of nine calls scheduled for PIP this year.

In addition, SMS' sister company, Cruise and Passenger Services (CPS), provided valet car parking services for passengers joining the ship.

SMS General Manager Alex Fernandez explained: "We are looking forward to another busy cruise ship season at Portsmouth as PIP continues to build its reputation as the favoured turnaround port for small cruise ships calling on the South Coast. We are committed to playing our part in ensuring that the port maintains its reputation for providing cruise passengers with an efficient, seamless experience."
